Authorization

With my signature below, I confirm that I am a revenue interest owner or an authorized representative. I agree that the terms and conditions of all agreements with Murphy Oil Corporation and/or its subsidiaries ("Payor") concerning method or timing of payments shall be amended as provided herein. Payor assumes no responsibility for any loss initiated by errors, omission or delays caused by my depository bank. Payor assumes no responsibility for fees or deductions made by my depository bank. I agree to hold Payor harmless and indemnify Payor from and against all liabilities, claims, losses, costs, expenses and damages of any kind including direct, indirect, consequential and punitive asserted against Payor directly or indirectly from or arising out of the electronic transfer of funds contemplated by this enrollment form. I hereby authorize and request Murphy Oil Corporation to make payments via electronic transfer into the referenced account and statement notification to be electronically emailed to the email address above upon account activation. I have read and agree to the terms and conditions in the attached direct deposit information sheet.

Direct Deposit Information Sheet

When will the funds be deposited?

Fund transfers will be initiated via Automated Clearing House (ACH) electronic transfer on the 25th day of each month. The transfer is expected to take place in less than 24 hours. This will provide more immediate access to your funds and result in a more convenient and secure transaction.

What will happen to the property-level detail that normally comes with my check?

If you elect to enroll in the ACH program, you will see the check detail that relates to your property. The check detail includes information for both the entire interest for which Murphy Oil remits payment as well as your ownership interest.

Can I direct funds to more than one account?

Deposits can only be sent to one account.

What types of accounts can be used for Direct Deposit?

Any account that accepts ACH transfers can be used in the program (this includes money market accounts). If you are unsure as to whether your bank or investment firm is set up to accept ACH transfers, please contact your institution prior to returning your enrollment form. If we encounter difficulty during the setup and testing process, you will be notified using the contact information you have provided. This may delay the start date for you to receive electronic deposits.

What happens if I need to change the deposit account at a later date?

Changes to your banking information can be made at any time by circling CHANGE on the enrollment form and submitting the new information on the form along with the supporting documentation. Please remember to notify us thirty (30) days before closing or changing an account that you are using for electronic deposits. If changes are not communicated before an ACH transfer is declined by your bank, it will cause a delay in the receipt of your funds.

How soon will the electronic deposits start after you receive my enrollment form?

After your form is received and processed, we will test your electronic deposit with your bank during the normal period and during this period, you will receive a check for the current month. After this testing cycle, direct deposit will begin. It is expected that the direct deposit process could take up to 2 months.

Will there be any changes to year-end reporting?

You will be able to access your information on IRS Form 1099 via the Owner Relations website at <http://www.murphyoilcorp.com>. For tax year 2013, you will also receive a mailed copy of IRS Form 1099.

Who is my contact for questions regarding Direct Deposit?

For further information please contact the Owner Relations department via phone at 1-888-289-9314 or email royalty_owner@murphyoilcorp.com.
